TERM 2

WEEK 13

THE FIRST CONDITIONAL

Sometimes we call conditionals 'if clauses'. They describe the result of something that might happen (in the present or future) or might have happened but didn't (in the past).

The first conditional describe a possibility in the present or future.

- TYPE 1 CONDITIONAL

- 1. Form

In a Type 1 conditional sentence, the tense in the 'if clause is the simple present, and the tense in the main clause is the simple future

'IF' CLAUSE (CONDITION)	MAIN CLAUSE (RESULT)
If + simple present If it rains If you don't hurry	Simple future you will get wet we will miss the train.

The first conditional has the present simple after 'if', then the future simple in the other clause:

- if + present simple, ... will + infinitive

It's used to talk about things which might happen in the future. It describes possible things, which could easily come true.

- If it rains, I won't go to the park.
- If I study today, I ll go to the party tonight.
- If I have enough money, I ll buy some new shoes.
- She ll be late if the train is delayed.
- She ll miss the bus if she doesn't leave soon.
- If I see her, I ll tell her.

The first conditional:

-describes a particular situation not general situations.

For example: if you sit in the sun, you'll get burned (here we are talking about what will happen today, another day might be different)

-describes things that are likely to happen in the future.

For example: if she studies harder, she'll pass the exam (it's possible she will study harder and so she'll pass)
